

This year's Policy Summit focuses on pairing research and policy development in order to work collaboratively on:

- a reformed benefits system;
- improved education and employment outcomes for people with disabilities;
- technology solutions for accessibility issues;
- a youth focus on how to get started on a job track; and
- to receive updates on international and national policy.

Ever Widening Circle will include a cocktail reception, a short program with an awards ceremony and feature comedienne Geri Jewell, known from HBO's "Deadwood" and as Cousin Geri on the NBC sitcom, "The Facts of Life," the first person with a disability to have a regular role on a prime time series. Performing as a stand up comedienne since 1978, Jewell is famous for her ability to use humor to facilitate attitudinal change.
